

US-China Economic Outlook

Join your Harbor Association of Industry and Commerce (HAIC) as we partner with the UCLA Anderson School of Management for an economic forecast. The U.S.-China relationship has moved rapidly from a strategic engagement to a strategic competition.

How will this transformation impact global supply chains? Meanwhile, facing supply chain issues occurred in the pandemic, there is a pivot from “Just in Time” logistics focused on efficiency to “Just in Case” focused on resiliency. How does this change impact international trade in the future? What is the outlook for re-shoring, near-shoring, and friend-shoring? How does this change impact L.A. Ports’ future activities?
